FORTRESS

Fortress 1981
Wartburg College

Volume XLVI
Waverly, Iowa

Dedication

For outstanding service to Wartburg and community, the 1981 Fortress (marking 75 years of Wartburg Publications) is dedicated to Mrs. Margaret Wolff Garland, Journalism and English professor 1946-1973.

Although Wartburg Publications date back to 1906, it was not until Mrs. Garland joined the faculty in 1946 that Wartburg began to offer courses in journalism and to develop award-winning publications. She served as adviser for both the Fortress and the Trumpet and taught courses in English as well as journalism. In 1965 the National Council of College Publications Advisers selected her as the country's top yearbook adviser.

Since her retirement, Mrs. Garland has continued to live in Waverly and to remain active in writing and publishing. In 1973 her former students honored her by publishing a volume of her poetry, and in 1979 the Wartburg College Chapter of the Society for Collegiate Journalists presented her with its Medal of Merit for Outstanding Contributions to Collegiate Journalism.

Graduation

Student life at Wartburg begins with orientation, followed by the first day of classes.

Orientation group leaders Mike Monthei, Mike Henry, Fred Thalacker and Phil Shive show off their legs as Bill Wessels offers them to incoming students during orientation.

Game Room Opens

Ujamaa brought many interesting activities and one of them was an African dinner in the cafe. Members of the committee dressed in appropriate clothing to help set the scene.

Students are often seen in blue jeans but Waverly Manors decided to dress up for competition in Wartburg's first intramural choral contest.

The cafe is part of the students' life each day, and eating is not the only activity to take place there. Students on work study help serve meals and wash dishes. Measuring hair in the cafe might sound unusual but Carol Takes assures students that it is all part of a Homecoming contest. Kevin Zehr gets his wish in the cafe as he throws a whipped pie in Dr. William Shipman's face as part of MD week.

Studying is the academic portion of student life. Students can study in the classroom, library or even outside.

Aside from studying, students can relax by enjoying lunch with friends on the campus mall, riding bikes or listening to guest panels.

Convos and Artist Series

Going to college isn't supposed to be all fun and games, but what did Wartburg students do with their free time aside from local student hangouts?

In addition to concerts by the Wartburg Community Symphony there were many selections of entertainment available through Wartburg's Artist Series.

Long Wharf's presentation of "Private Lives" by Noel Coward marked the first time the theatre group from New Haven, Connecticut, appeared in this area. The comedy revolved around a formerly divorced couple who meet again, but with their newly wed spouses.

Known as one of the world's most noted choirs, the forty-member Westminster Choir appeared at Wartburg on Nov. 13. Presenting music from the medieval period to the twentieth century, the John Biggs Consort was informal and intimate. Dance was also featured when the Connecticut Dance Theatre came to the Neumann Auditorium stage on Feb. 24. Closing out the Artist Series season on March 28 was the L'Orchestre du Capitole de Toulouse.

Students also had the opportunity to attend lectures by visiting speakers which, like the Artist Series, covered a diversity of subjects.

Dr. Robert Vogel, Wartburg's new president, was installed during Homecoming. On the same day author Studs Terkel spoke as part of Wartburg's convocation series.

"Reason's Deadly Dreams" was the topic of Rabbi Richard Rubenstein's talk. Sponsored by the Jewish Chautauqua Society, Rabbi Rubenstein discussed how state-sponsored programs of genocide have become a part of the twentieth century.

Peter Davis, who directed such films as "The Selling of the Pentagon" and "Hearts and Minds," visited the Wartburg campus on Feb. 25.

Other guests were David Simonson (March 10), Vincent Icke (Jan. 1), Gershom Ma (April 7), and Herbert Boyer (April 1) and Peter Davis (Feb. 25).

Homecoming Weekend Signals New Beginning

Louis (Studs) Terkel, a best-selling author and radio-television personality, was the keynote speaker at the Renaissance Festival convocation. Terkel, author of best-sellers "Working" and "American Dreams: Lost and Found," is a man interested in the experiences of the common working person.

"Work is an extension of a person, and if that work has no meaning, the person has no meaning," Terkel feels that those who go to school with only the idea of getting ahead in the world are making a "perversion of what education is." School, according to Terkel, "should mean discovering possibilities within yourself and within all that's outside you—opening the window. It's being free."

Dr. Robert L. Vogel was officially installed as president of Wartburg College in inaugural ceremonies at Neumann Auditorium Friday, Oct. 17.

Dr. Vogel replaces Dr. William W. Jellema, who served as president from 1974 to 1980 and is now on the faculty at the University of Connecticut.

Addressing his acceptance speech to individual sectors of the audience, Dr. Vogel said that old commitments had been renewed.

"Students are the most important people in the Wartburg community," said Dr. Vogel. He added that he hopes to face students with issues confronting our community. "Our purpose is to help you to claim the ground out of which you have come," he said.

The rite of inauguration and an address by Dr. David Preus, president of the American Lutheran Church, preceded Dr. Vogel's speech.

Preus spoke of the ties between the liberal arts college and the church.

"Wartburg has helped students explore the wildest possible swamp of ideas," Preus said, "and they are clear in their own commitment of Christ in the church. Liberal arts schools make it happen."

President Vogel's words echoed Preus' message, "Wartburg is, and will continue to be, a college of the church."

President Vogel addresses the Wartburg students and faculty following inauguration exercises.

Homecoming Weekend: Kapers and Queens

Kastle Kapers

Kastle Kapers capped off Friday evening's Homecoming activities with two performances.

The variety show offered Wartburg students a chance at amateur performances in front of their fellow students. Professors also got into the act of participating by forming their own groups to act or sing.

Between the two shows, the crowning of the Homecoming Queen was held. Students chose among seven candidates, and senior Marcia Niehaus received the honors.

Wartburg's Barber Shop Quartet: l-r: The Rev. Waldemar Gies, associate professor of religion; Kenneth Markworth, chairman of Education Department; Dr. Robert E. Lee, Band director; Dr. Richard Stedtfeld, associate professor of education. Harmony at its best!

Emcees David Goos and John Bristow, both seniors, attempt the "Mighty Carnac" genius of envelope reading.

President Vogel kneels in front of the newly crowned Homecoming Queen Marcia Niehaus. Val Bakker, 1979 Homecoming Queen, looks on in awe. Also watching are Student Body President Kirk Kleckner, senior candidate Gloria Staker and senior Phil Porter.

Homecoming Queen candidates: 1-r: Gloria Staker, Marcia Niehaus, Peggy Krampe, Chris Harreld, Deanna Magee, Andrea Nielsen and Becky Westphalen. All are seniors.

Senior Mike Warden (20) takes the ball once again for a touchdown. Wartburg lost to Luther, 17-7.

Castle Singers has traditionally sold tacos at the Renaissance Faire, and this year was no exception. Serving front to back are: junior Mike Williams, seniors Peggy Krampe, Marcia Niehaus and Dave Rueber. Senior Bill Wessels is waiting to be served.

Butterflies will no longer emerge from cocoons at Wartburg.

An Educational Policies Committee (EPC) decision in April 1980 began the phase-out of the Chrysalis program from the curriculum.

Problems for Chrysalis originated in 1979 when Wartburg Hall, home of the program, was declared a safety hazard. Dr. Herman Diers, former director of Chrysalis, said the problem was further complicated when the gender imbalance on the campus at the time was pressing for a relocation of students.

At the time, the cost efficiency and native recruitment aspects of the Chrysalis program were being studied, Diers added. Implementation of the new general education program also loomed in the near future. "All of these things came together toward the end of last year," Diers said.

An EPC subcommittee examined the cost effectiveness, native recruitment, accomplishment of objectives and the possibility of staffing for the general education program and Chrysalis.

Dr. Dan Thomas, former Chrysalis instructor, said, "The report concluded that on every ground the program was strong, although there were doubts about the academic effectiveness of the program among non-Chrysalis students."

Despite the findings by the subcommittee that the program be continued, the EPC recommended to the faculty that the program be phased out during the 1980-81 school year. If a new general education program was adopted, the Chrysalis program could not continue.

Chrysalis also provided for much more interaction between students and professors. Another unique aspect of the program was based on discussion encouraging everyone to participate. Another feature of Chrysalis was the independent study. Students actually became responsible for shaping their own education, Diers said. "Many of the elements of Chrysalis were incorporated into the general education program to extend the unique experience which Chrysalis provided to even more of the people on campus."

Chrysalis Ends . . .

... Core Course Begin

This fall marked the beginning of a new general education program at Wartburg, known as the Wartburg Plan. It includes foundational studies, which allow the student to feel the liveliness of liberal arts; experimental studies, which involve one fine arts or literature, one cross-cultural or foreign language, one science laboratory, and two activities for physical well-being; and integrative studies, which require a faith and reflection and a religion or philosophy course. Finally, there is the capstone course which may be integrated into the student's major. Altogether twelve to fifteen courses are needed to fulfill these requirements in the new plan.

The foundational courses are Human Expression, Natural World, and Person and Society. They are to encompass much of what is related to each field in order to lay a foundation on which the student may build. According to Dr. Herman Diers, an instructor for Human Expression, they are "tailor made for general education" and attempt "to capture the spirit of what they concern rather than a detailed analysis."

Each course is headed by a team of professors, one or two from each related field. A lecture is held on Tuesday for the entire class. On Wednesdays and Thursdays the class meets in four or five separate sections. These sections meet as discussion groups, seminars, or lab periods. The sections provide opportunity for the students to explore further the material they have been assigned.

KATHRYN KOOB, WELCOME HOME

Wartburg welcomed home one of its famous alumni on Feb. 12, 1981, as she returned from a 444-day stay as a hostage in Iran. Kathryn Koob, a '62 graduate, told of her experiences in captivity and expressed her thanks to America in a service of celebration and thanksgiving in Knights Gymnasium.

She related the things that had kept her going through the days, weeks, and months of captivity. "I kept remembering my confirmation promises, 'Be thou faithful unto death . . . ' and 'Lo, I am with you always.'" Other remembrances also gave her strength through her ordeal. Koob said she thought a lot about Wartburg—the people, the experience—and contemplated how her Wartburg years fit into her Iranian experience.

"What impresses me most about Wartburg is growth—of spirit, heart and mind." She commented Wartburg's faculty who, according to Koob, have the dedication to students and the willingness to share themselves and their experiences with students that is usually found only on the graduate level at some schools. Wartburg's faculty "have a readiness to share everything they have."

The growth available at Wartburg falls into two categories, said Koob. First is personal growth. "You meet people here unlike people anywhere else." When being persecuted by Islamic students, Koob remembered a Moslem girl she had met at Wartburg and realized that not all Muslims felt the same way her Iranian captors did.

Wartburg also contributes to spiritual growth, said Koob. "Many of you come from Christian homes, Christian communities, but the growing doesn't stop at confirmation."

With tears in her eyes, Kathryn Koob closed her talk by saying, "My prayer for you is that you grow here and now but that it doesn't stop after Wartburg." She reminded the audience composed of students, faculty, Waverly people and elementary school children, that the setbacks which everyone experience are not a hindrance to growth, but only pruning because "pruning makes a healthier plant."

"I thank God that Wartburg opened my mind so that for 444 days I could open my mind to my captors."

Following the worship service, President Robert Vogel presented Koob with a plaque depicting Old Main and the vigil light which burned for a year and a day as a reminder to Wartburg people that the hostages were still not home. President Vogel said, "The Light was for you, Kathryn. For the days, the weeks, and then the months—the light kept you in our prayers."

Immediately following the presentation, Koob was escorted outside, where she pulled the plug on the light, acknowledging that she was finally home. The extinguishing was met by the applause of hundreds of mittens as onlookers lined the sidewalks around Old Main.

Late that afternoon, Koob fielded questions from students about her experience, impressions of current events and her plans for the future.

Koob said she would have been willing to wait 10 or 15 years to be released, because she fully expected to come home. She told her guards that she was ready to see their children and grandchildren if it took that long to be freed.

Students expressed their thanks to Koob for her willingness to serve and for being an inspiration even in captivity. She responded by saying, "The limelight is not for me, it's for the Glory of God."

NEW FACES OLD PLACES

Wartburg Publications celebrated its 75th anniversary this year. There were many activities, and one of them was the publication of Little Songs by Dr. G.J. Neuman, who taught at Wartburg for 53 years. Harold Webster (BA63) vice president for public relations at the Northwestern National Bank in Minneapolis, spoke on Homecoming Weekend about Dr. Neumann, noting both the publication of the book and the 100th birthday of Old Main. Webster delivered the following message: "I'm very pleased to be included in these proceedings because my particular role here gives me an opportunity to make an important point.

Most of the alumni really do have a genuine fondness for the campus and its buildings, particularly Old Main. There's nothing wrong with that, but we ought to put it in perspective.

The truth is, buildings have no independent significance whatever, not even Old Main. What counts is the quality and character of the people whom we knew here and with whom we shared experiences in these buildings. At a time when we were very impressionable, those people put their stamp on us.

When you think about it, the little visual images we carry in our minds are all about people, not buildings. For me Dr. Hertel will forever be as he was 20 years ago, telling us, "Protoplasm is the physical basis of life," always moving his hands just so. Dr. Sandberg still looks at me through those thick glasses and tells me something I just wrote is "fit for pouring over pancakes." That's a direct quote. I haven't been able to write anything sentimental since he told me that.

But we're here to talk about Dr. Neumann and what memories we have of him. I owe him something for things he taught me about writing. I remember the very day when Dr. Neumann told us not to clutter up a story with useless elements. "If you open up a story mentioning a loaded gun," he said, "somewhere along the line you've got to shoot it." That's good advice for a writer. Dr. Neumann understood the craft of writing. And he practiced it.

I recall seeing an enormous stack of original limericks at his house one day. Good Stuff. Apparently he'd been writing more than one a day for a very long time. I remember thinking at the time, this must be the world's largest collection of clean limericks. I knew that when he died he would probably leave behind a great treasure of stories and poems. And he most certainly did. Over in the campus library there must be several thousand poems and stories—all carefully crafted and neatly boxed away, maybe forever. One wonders what he intended to do with them. Maybe just the satisfaction of putting the words on paper was enough. But we felt we couldn't just let them die. It was no small task for Miss Moehl and Mrs. Garland to winnow through and edit the poetry that comprises Dr. Neumann's Little Songs, which incidentally Harold Kurtz named. The process took a long time and involved lots of hard work.

How this book came to be is a fascinating story that we don't have time to tell. Let me just say that, due to some unique misunderstandings and logistical problems, the project ate up nearly 14 years. And if it hadn't been for Erna and Margaret and Bob and Marion Gremmels, if it hadn't been for a lot of support from people like Harold Kurtz and Omar Bonderud and a great host of other contributors, we never would have got it done.

Dr. G.J. Neumann
1888-1965

Book Highlights Anniversary

And that would have been a shame. Not because we think these poems are masterworks. They stand on their own well enough, and we don't have to apologize to anybody for them. However, there is a regularity about them and a kind of gentle good humor that some will regard as anachronistic. We know that. Not to have printed this book would have been a shame because we'd have failed to acknowledge this man in a very important way.

While there are some of us left who knew him first hand, it's important that we do something to express how we felt about him. It is all very well to name buildings after him, but this is personal. We needed to do this for ourselves. I think I speak for every student he ever had when I say that we all benefited greatly from the experience. He seemed genuinely to care about every single student in his classes, and I don't know anybody who doesn't feel that way. Aside from the classroom instruction, I think we all appreciated Dr. Neumann as a man who seemed free of malice. I never heard him utter a single mean or ungracious remark in all the time I knew him. We just don't meet very many people like that.

Anyhow, the book is done. I think he'd have liked it. I think it carries his very best and most representative work.

President Vogel accepts a copy of Little Songs from Dr. Neumann's son, Arthur Neumann.

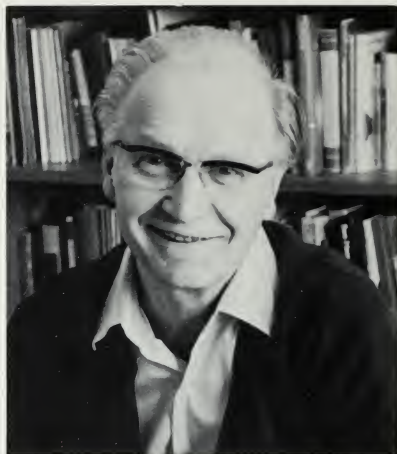

COMMUNICATION ARTS

Communication Arts is the 10th largest major among students at Wartburg College. Students are involved more in the different types of media this year than ever before. Paul Beck (junior), editor of the Trumpet, has expanded the paper from eight to 12 pages. Kim Bender (senior), KWAR station manager, has made many improvements in the format of the station and has commenced new longer hours. Nan Baker (senior), Fortress editor, says that she has had the largest staff that the yearbook has had in five years. Bruce Mills (senior), Castle editor, received many literary works from students other than English and Communication Arts students. Many were just interested in the idea of writing for a publication.

This year Journalism finally turned full-time. The Journalism major has been on a part-time basis ever since Mr. Gremmels arrived in 1972.

Coach Don Canfield called the season "frustrating" as the Knights were their own worst enemy, turning the ball over 43 times. As a team, the Knights were outgained, 2,647 yards to 1,797, and outscored, 203-97. Even though the Knights did poorly, next season is always on the horizon.

The Knights football team selected Duane Randall as the most valuable player. First Team All-IIAC Defense: Bob Reiter; Second Team All-IIAC Defense: Randy Stanek.

Men's Basketball

Seniors Jim Sampson and Matt Ellis stand with their families following their final basketball game at Wartburg.

Matt Ellis finished his career of basketball at Wartburg with many honors. He finished the season as the third-highest scorer in Wartburg basketball history with 1406 points. His 18.5 scoring average over a total of 76 games is the best of any Wartburg player. His 752 rebounds placed him sixth on the all-time rebounding list. Ellis ended with a field goal percentage of 55.3. Matt was recognized as an All-American player by Basketball Weekly magazine. Ellis was selected to the third team and became the second Wartburg player named to an All-American team.

Intramurals

Intramurals allow students to compete against students from other housing units in a variety of sports.

The FORTRESS asked each coach about the 1980-81 season. Here are their replies:

Coach Levick: "The Wartburg College basketball season was similar to a ride on a roller coaster in an amusement park. It was a season of great highs and agonizing lows—a season that saw some great victories but also some unexplained defeats. Some of the highlights of the season were outstanding victories over Simpson, Luther (twice) and Central on the road. Matt Ellis left his name in the record books. He finished the season as the third highest scorer in Wartburg basketball history with 1,406 points. His 18.5 scoring average over a total of 76 games is the best of any previous player at Wartburg. His 752 rebounds placed him sixth on the all time rebounding list. Ellis was recognized as an All American player by "Basketball Weekly" magazine. Ellis was selected to the third team and becomes the second Wartburg player named to an All American team."

Coach Oppermann: "This year women's golf marked the first time that Wartburg placed in the state tournament at Fort Dodge, winning third place. Sandy Buhrow was medalist in this meet as she was in four other meets. Women's golf is on the upswing. Baseball this year was highlighted by Paul Grote-lueschen, Charlie Fredrick and Reece Dodd being selected all-conference. The 10-4 conference record tied the conference champions of 1977 for second place."

Ron Alexander (submitted by Coach Kurtt): "Women's cross country was a new sport in 1980. Improvement during the year was a motivating factor and they finished the season at Ames in the AIAW Regional meet with an 8th place team finish. Liz Mitchell finished 18th out of 265 runners in the regional meet and was voted the team's most valuable runner for 1980."

Coach Kurtt: "The men's team showed a great deal of improvement during 1980. They were team champions at the Central and Dubuque Invitational meets and finished third at the Grinnell Invitational. Doug Rogers finished 5th in the NCAA Division III Regional with a record of 24:18 in the 8,000 meter race. He finished 23rd in the National meet and became Wartburg's second cross country All-American."

Coach Bishop: "The 1980-81 golf team was young and inexperienced. Finishing fifth in the conference was not as high as desired, but was very respectable. It was a pleasure to work with the young golfers of Dan Unmacht, Scott Klever and Pete Steinhauer. We will miss the old timers of "coach" Mark Nuss, "Beav" Dave Unmacht and Randy Stanek. Congratulations to Dan Unmacht, who was voted the most valuable golfer."

Coach Canfield: "The men's tennis team played their best tennis to place second at the Iowa Conference Tennis Tournament. All seven entries earned medals. Players involved included Carlos Ramirez, Matt Harms, Fernando Ramirez, Byron Allmandinger, Tim Kurtt, Owen Greenough. Doubles included Carlos Ramirez and Matt Harms, Fernando Ramirez and Byron Allmandinger, and Tim Kurtt and Jeff Overson."

"Wartburg football of 1980 had many victories but not in the score board. The 2-7 season saw too many injuries and fumbles to be a winning season. Yet, Wartburg can be proud of the attitude and continuous determination of this fine group of young men. Team captains were Lee Camp, Randy Stanek and Bob Reiter. Duane Randall was voted most valuable player, and All Conference selections were Bob Reiter and Randy Stanek."

Coach Liz Wuertz: "We are growing and getting better. A very exciting season this year; nine indoor records were broken, and 13 outdoor records were broken. We placed first and third in the high jump at the State meet."

"Who could feel anything but good about this past year at Wartburg College."—President Robert Vogel

Vogel Returns Home

A small John Deere tractor sits on his desk. It reminds him daily of his family, of his father—a farmer. His coming back to Wartburg over a year ago reminds him of coming home. And Wartburg's 14th President, Robert Vogel, has developed feelings on campus and throughout the Wartburg Community as one family, as a body of the church.

Coming home to Wartburg after graduating in 1956, President Vogel wanted to be part of campus life as much as his time and energy permitted, and he and his wife, Sally, have become part of the campus. They were loyal fans of the Knights, attended many music events, Artist Series and numerous other activities.

President Vogel said, "I'm so proud to attend a music event or cheer on the Knights because Wartburg College has a unique quality of programs with students, faculty and administration."

Within Wartburg, there exists the Wartburg Community, who share "a commitment of support, dedication, and loyalty." President Vogel said the Wartburg Community includes the people of Waverly, who daily support the college; the people of the Waterloo-Cedar Falls area, who are accepting Wartburg as their private college through support in the Design for Tomorrow; the students on campus; and all the alumni.

As President, Vogel sees his role to represent the college wherever he goes both off and on campus. His love and dedication for Wartburg and all the people associated with it explain why he is "willing to sacrifice to make Wartburg stronger, and willing to do what he can for Wartburg College."

Advice to the graduating seniors? President Vogel responded:

"Wartburg graduates are good neighbors. They measure the value of life and the benefit it brings to people and the community. Seniors should join congregations where they will live, make contributions to community life, enjoy their work, and marry for life, which will be one single contribution to them and their community."

As for other students, Vogel hopes to see everyone back in the fall. He would like the global international relationships to grow.

"As a college of the church, we belong to a global family," he said.

Student Activities Committee (SAC) is a committee that provides activities every week for students. Members are selected through applications and interviews.

On weekends, students attended movies for only one dollar or with a movie pass. Once a month students were able to put on their dancing shoes, to bands that included SAW-BUCK, SPENCER, and Jim Stern from Waterloo.

During the week, there were programming events which provided classroom fun outside of class. Various speakers were brought in and spoke on different topics including rape, insurance, photography.

Traditional events for SAC included

Brother/Sister weekend, which brought over 125 siblings to campus. Winter Carnival, and Outfly events.

Recreational events included a skiing trip to LaCrosse, WI, and over spring break students headed south to Florida for a week stay in Daytona Beach.

Student coffeehouses were popular again this year. The spring coffeehouse featured President Vogel and his sidekick, Kirk Vogel, as MC's.

The game room and TV room allowed students to take a break from studying.

The close of the year led to the selection of a new student activities director as Jan Crowley left to be married.

Love Conquers All

Love does conquer all, according to the 1981 MD Committee. The committee, chaired by junior Carla Stahlberg, raised $3500 for the fight against Muscular Dystrophy.

It was a Wartburg Community effort, according to Stahlberg. Joe's Knight-Hawk hosted the second annual MD Bar Night. Students helped raise over $500 that evening.

Waverly Mayor Clarence Wickham proclaimed March 16-22 as Muscular Dystrophy week to begin the marathon.

Whipped cream pies in the faces of President Vogel, Dr. Donald Roiseland, Dr. William Shipman, Dr. Augie Waltmann, Dr. Chris Schmidt, junior Mary Holtapp, and senior Bill Nolte brought in more money.

The main event was the 24-hour dance marathon. More than 20 couples danced the full 24 hours and helped reach the $3500 total through pledges from students, faculty and friends.

KWAR provided the music.

The tour guides give prospective students tours of the campus.

The 60-piece Wartburg College Concert Band left on April 20 for its third European tour.

This year's trip took the band, under the direction of Dr. Robert E. Lee, to England, the Netherlands, France, Switzerland, Austria, West and East Germany and Denmark.

The band performed three programs: one of sacred music used at church services, a symphonic program and an adaptation of the John Philip Sousa program presented earlier this year in Waverly and Cedar Falls and aired in August over the Iowa Public Broadcasting Network.

In addition to performing 20 concerts, the students took a May Term course, entitled "Tour with the Arts," under the supervision of Dr. Lee and Dr. Maynard Anderson of Wartburg's Music Department.

The course involved attendance at the opera, concerts, and dramatic presentations plus the visual arts and a study of architecture in major European centers.

Members of the band include: Carlene Schipper, Eric Biedermann, Lori Dennhardt, Beverly Wetzel, Robert Goodman, Cindy Scheidt, Nancy Meyer, Debbie Fetter, Michelle Fetter, Dan Foelske, Robert Miller, Lynette Krambeer, Allan Latcham, Rose Marie Oldenkamp, Diane Ehlert, Jane Hemingway, Betsy Welten, Tony Hogge, Robin Zwanziger, Noel Stoffregen, Allan Guetzlaff, Amy Guetzlaff, Karen Kurth, Cheryl Graves, Sherry Foy, Lesa Peterson, Sherry Soenksen, Fred Burrack, Karlene Gerdes, Vernon Mohlis, Myrna Johnson, Suzanne Lease, Barbara Nissen, Michelle James, Ron Landis, Janet Schminke, Mark Cooper, Katherine McDonald, Nancy Pickett, John Schwartz, Donald Tebben, Ann Ludwig, Brian Holmes, Karl Koenig, Pam Bristow, Margaret Blobaum, Paul Blobaum, Curt Zimmerman, Stacy Robb, Lisa Ruby, Naomi Kraemer, Penny Meier, Jeffrey Johnson, Angela Bartz, Merrilee Wood, Cheryl Ohrt, Brenda Barth, Christine Sampson, Elyse Erickson, Robin Krahn.

One hour, Monday through Friday, the band practices under the direction of Dr. Robert Lee.

I would like to express my sincere thank-you to the following people that helped in the completion of the 1981 Fortress:

The photographers under Gary Shanks include Don Mackey, Bill Bartels, Jeff Banwart and the others—without them there would be no yearbook. All the staff, especially Kim Bender, Karen Petersen, and Nan Baker. My friends who listened, my floor, C3N, and to my sister, Ruth, who helped the most by sticking with me and helping to the final day. Thank you Barb McNeil and Doug Brown for letting me stay with you and for storing my things. And to Mr. Gremmels, without whose advice and help the 1981 Fortress would never be. Thank you to our yearbook representative, Bob Welsch, for sticking with us. Your help was appreciated.

Congratulations to all the seniors. I hope the 1981 Fortress will help you remember your last year on campus. Good luck to next year's editor, Karen Petersen; you'll need it.

Thanks, everyone,

Deb Willing
Spring-May Term Editor
